EATING DIFFERENTLY – THE EXPERIMENT (10+)

Directed by: Andrea Ernst; Kurt Langbein Genre: Documentary | Duration: 84 min. Country & year of production: Austria 2020 Trailer (in German): Anders essen – Das Experiment

Our way of eating pollutes the climate. But how big is the carbon footprint and is it true that our cattle are actually in the fields of soybean farmers in Brazil? For this film, a field is planted with ex-actly those foods that land on our plates per person - and which are used by the industry to produce food for animals. The result is a field of 4,400 m², two thirds of which are located abroad. All in all, we consume twice as much as we actually deserve. Can this be changed? Three families venture into a self-experiment: they start shopping regionally and rediscover cooking. The result is surpris-ing. Eating differently is actually changing our carbon footprint.

GENERATION CHANGE: WHO SAVES THE WORLD? (14+)
